

Emerging Endorsed Reflective Supervisor

What is Emerging?

Emerging is a 2-yr period where endorsed professional can begin providing qualifying hours of reflective supervision/consultation to others while working towards meeting the complete ERS requirements.

Requirements for Emerging

- Maintain active endorsement in ANY category
- Received 24 hours of RSC from a qualified Endorsed Provider while while doing Infant/Early Childhood Mental Health relevant work
- 5 hours of training specific to providing RSC
- 2 References

Why Emerging?

There are some professionals who, in their role, are required to provide reflective supervision to professionals going through Endorsement. It is important that the need to develop RSC skills doesn't create a barrier to being a provider of RSC.

While Emerging you have 2 years to...

Receive

- Receive 12 hours of RSC about the RSC your provide to others

Provide

While

- You provide RSC to others for a minimum of 1 year

Train

While

- You participate in a total of 15 hours of training specific to providing RSC

Do I have to do Emerging?

No, RSC providers are encouraged to apply for ERS when they have met the requirements. You may already have the complete requirements met, or it may make sense for you to meet the requirements first, and then apply. Consider who you provide to and choose the journey that fits best.
